Dear Harold, 11/24/97

I received the two unretyped manuscripts you sent last week. At a minimum I plan to xerox them and send them along to Dennis. I have already communicated with Dennis via e-mail. We are both up to our eyeballs in papers and other school work, but we will get a reprieve from that in a few weeks. I may try to tackle the Nechiporenko draft at that time.

It was a pretty quiet 34th anniversary down here. The only thing I saw in the local paper was the enclosed AP story which I promptly used to illustrate the failures of the press and the ARRB. Also, a longer article on the King assassination appeared in this past Sunday's (11/23) NYTimes. I have not seen anything else on Hersch, except for a full page ad in the NYTimes Book Review section. It is pretty disgusting.

Hope you and Lillian will have a good Thanksgiving. I will be in touch.

Best,

Gerry
